FROM THE DESK OF FR ERIC ANDERSEN

This Tuesday is the feast of St. Maria Goretti. I was given a first class relic from the bones of St. Maria Goretti, with a certificate of authenticity, when I was first ordained a priest. In order to present a relic for veneration, or to place it on the altar during Mass, it must be accompanied by a certificate. We will venerate this relic after both Mass and Vespers this coming Tuesday.

The Council of Trent teaches the following:
“The bodies of holy martyrs and of others now living with Christ (which bodies were the living members of Christ and the temple of the Holy Ghost, and which are to be raised by Him to eternal life and to be glorified) are to be venerated by the faithful, for through these bodies many benefits are bestowed by God on men; so that they who now affirm that veneration and honor are not due to the relics of the saints, that these are uselessly honored by the faithful, and that the places dedicated to the memories of the saints are visited in vain, are wholly to be condemned.” (qtd. in Sullivan, The Externals of the Catholic Church. 1918, p. 258).

Why Do We Honor Them? The Catholic devotion to relics is founded upon two great principles of the Church’s teaching regarding the saints. First she honor the saints; and when they were living on earth they, like all men, were composed each of a body and a soul. The virtues which a saint practiced were not virtues of the soul only; they were proper to the whole individual, to his body as well as his soul, for body and soul labored and suffered together. The soul of a saint is in heaven. Now the bodies of those who are in heaven are certain to rise again to a glorious immortality. The Church, then, joyfully anticipates the glory which God will give to these bodies at the last day. She pays religious homage to them — even to small fragments of them; and she gives similar honor even to things that were closely connected with the earthly life of those servants of God.

Secondly, Catholics believe that God is sometimes pleased to honor the relics of the saints by making them instruments of healing and other miracles and that He bestows graces and favors on those who keep and venerate them — for the honor that is paid to such relics is really veneration of the saint himself, which gives glory to God and secures for us the intercession of those who stand before God’s throne in heaven (Sullivan, p. 258). The healing power of relics is found in scripture (the bones of Eliseus the prophet [4 Kings 13:21] and the shadow of St. Peter in Acts 5:15).
